

Sometimes workers have to be outside in the hot sun. So to keep cool they wear a cool suit.

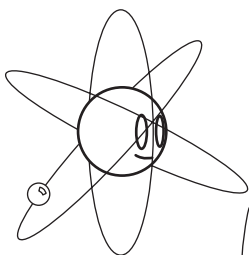

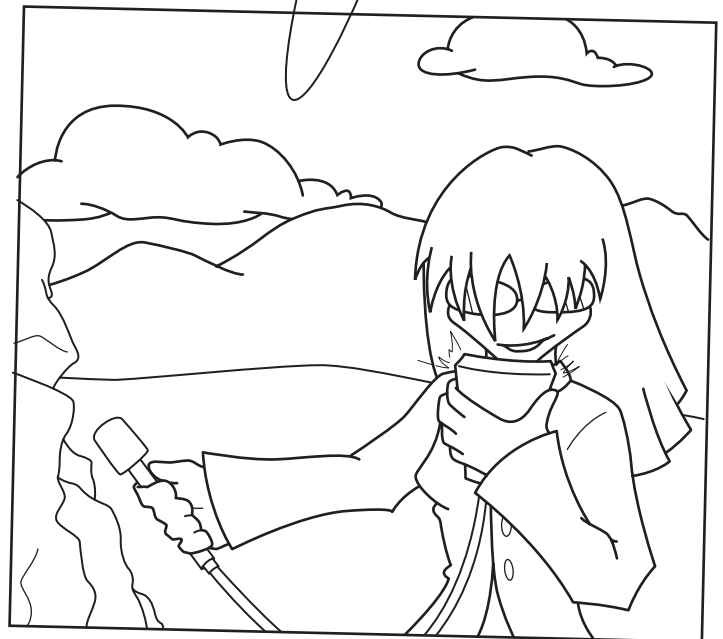

Cool!

The suit works by moving cold water through tubes that travel all over the suit.

To help clean up the Nevada Test Site, workers also use tools called sensors which help detect harmful materials in the soil and water.

Some of the sensors can change colors to warn of harmful materials that may be nearby.